

PADDINGToN - Parent co-Designed Drug Information for parents and Guardians Taking Neonates home

Are you a healthcare professional looking after neonates who require medication on discharge. Would you like to participate in a study to help co-design resources for parents/carers giving medicines at home?

We would like to ask you some questions about your view on medication problems encountered by parents/carers during the transition between hospital and home and ask you to identify any existing available resources used to support this process. This will be in the form of an electronic or paper survey which should take about 10 minutes to complete. Information from the surveys will then be used to prepare material for focus group meetings for parents/carers, that will discuss in more detail any problems or issues identified and what type of resources may be helpful in the future. A small number of parents/carers will be invited to help co-design new medicine support resources. We will then ask HCPs and a new group of parents/carers to review these resources.
